H1N1 Vaccine Allocation Update

The Department of Health Services (DHS) is providing an update on the amount of H1N1 vaccine allocated to Wisconsin from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The CDC allocates, or assigns, the amount of H1N1 vaccine each state will receive each week.

There is a lag time between the state being told its allocation from the CDC and providers receiving those doses. Currently, Wisconsin has been allotted a total of 1,002,000 doses of H1N1 vaccine.

Wisconsin H1N1 Vaccine Allotments

Date	Daily Doses Allocated to WI	Total Doses Allocated to WI
As of November 18 th	---	947,600
November 19	13,600	961,200
November 20	40,800	1,002,000

Although Wisconsin has been allocated more than one million doses of vaccine, there is still not enough to open vaccinations to the general public statewide at this time. DHS continues to monitor the vaccine supply. As part of this process, DHS has issued a survey to providers to help assess if the target groups have been reached. This analysis will help assess when an adequate vaccine supply exists that allows Wisconsin to extend vaccinations to other groups.

People may call 2-1-1 to find out an H1N1 or seasonal influenza vaccine clinic nearest them. A “clinic finder” is also available online at <http://pandemic.wisconsin.gov> or www.wisconsinfluclinic.info.
