

Basic Home Health Online Course

Program Content

This educational course, sponsored by the Wisconsin Department of Health and Family Services, Division of Quality Assurance is a BASIC Home Health online training course. This interactive course is intended to build a foundation of understanding about the home health agency federal regulations. The federal home health agency Conditions of Participation (CoPs) and Appendix B of the State Operations Manual (SOM), are the basis for this course. Appendix B includes the regulations, interpretative guidelines and questions to consider when determining if home health agencies are following federal regulations. The learner will have the opportunity to reinforce their understanding of the regulations by completing the learning assessments throughout the course, the case study and the final, graded assessment.

Program Goals

The program will provide participants with a variety of useful information. After taking this online course participants will be able to:

- Identify and discuss the three types of surveys that may be performed by surveyors.
- Identify and discuss the regulations associated with each of the survey types.
- Apply knowledge of the federal regulations to determine agency compliance.

Intended Audience

- New home health agency staff and new Division of Quality Assurance home health agency surveyors.
- Seasoned home health agency staff and Division of Quality Assurance staff will also find the course extremely helpful as a refresher and reinforcer of prior learning.
- Others who have a desire to learn more about the basic home health agency federal regulations or who need a refresher on these regulations.
