About Prairiелands ATTC

Prairiелands Addiction Technology Transfer Center (ATTC) serves five states in the Midwest (Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin). The Department of Community and Behavioral Health in the College of Public Health at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa, hosts the Prairiелands ATTC.

Prairiелands ATTC's primary mission is to disseminate evidence based practice in substance abuse and problem gambling thereby bridging the gap between science and service. Prairiелands ATTC provides technical assistance, training, and systems change assistance throughout the five-state region.
Dissemination efforts in 2011 address a wide variety of issues and aspects of addiction. These included issues specific to substance abuse, culturally specific populations, problem gambling, persons identifying as lesbian, gay, bisexual, or transgender, clinical supervision, concerns in rural, frontier and tribal treatment populations, co-occurring disorders, and women and their children.
