You Will Keep Your Tuberculosis-Related Medicaid Benefits During the COVID-19 Public Health Emergency

Making sure the people of Wisconsin can get health care when they need it is always important. During the COVID-19 pandemic, it is more important than ever. In response to the COVID-19 public health emergency and federal rules, the Wisconsin Department of Health Services has temporarily changed program rules to help protect the health and safety of members of Tuberculosis-Related Medicaid.

One of these changes is that if you were eligible for health care benefits on or after March 18, 2020, you will keep them until at least the end of the month in which the federal public health emergency for COVID-19 ends.

This means that even if you had changes that would normally have made you lose your health care benefits on or after March 18, 2020, you will keep your benefits during the federal public health emergency. Until the end of the federal public health emergency, you will only lose

The Key Message

You will keep your health care benefits during the COVID-19 federal public health emergency.

your health care benefits if you move out of Wisconsin or ask to end your health care benefits.

How does this affect me?

You may have reported changes that would have normally reduced or ended your health care benefits, such as a new source of income that put you over the program's income limit. While we recorded these changes, they will not affect your benefits for the rest of the federal public health emergency.

Also, you do not have to renew your Tuberculosis-Related Medicaid benefits until after the federal public health emergency. In some cases, we can renew your benefits with the information we already have on file. For most members, we will send you a letter 45 days before you need to renew your benefits.

After the federal public health emergency ends, we will send you a letter if there are going to be any changes to your health care benefits. We will send a letter before any changes happen.

What do I need to do?

You still need to report changes to your agency. Your agency has sent you letters with the types of changes that you need to report. If you can't find these letters, you can also call and ask your agency what you have to report. You can find your agency's phone number in the Attachment of this Update.

In some cases, changes may mean you can get more benefits or that you will pay less out of pocket.

If you have questions about your eligibility or want to stop getting your health care benefits, please call your agency.

How long will the public health emergency last?

The United States Secretary of Health and Human Services declared a public health emergency for the COVID-19 pandemic, beginning January 27, 2020. While the federal public health emergency period is currently set to expire on July 20, 2021, it can be extended. Based on what the federal government has said, we expect that the public health emergency will last at least until December 31, 2021. We expect to keep all members enrolled until at least the end of 2021.

REMINDER

Please continue to report changes to your agency.

The information provided in this ForwardHealth Update is published in accordance with 2019 Wisconsin Act 185 § 105(1)(d).

What will happen when the public health emergency ends?

Your benefits might change or end when the federal public health emergency is over. We will send you a letter to let you know before those changes happen.

What if I purchased health care through the Marketplace?

You may have purchased a qualified health plan through the Marketplace if you thought you would lose your Tuberculosis-Related Medicaid health care. Because you will keep these benefits during the federal public health emergency, you may have benefits through both Tuberculosis-Related Medicaid and the Marketplace.

The Internal Revenue Service has said that being eligible for Tuberculosis-Related Medicaid does not affect your eligibility for federal marketplace benefits or the advance premium tax credits. For more information on advance premium tax credits, refer to the Questions and Answers on the Premium Tax Credit page on the Internal Revenue Service website at www.irs.gov/affordable-care-act/individuals-and-families/questions-and-answers-on-the-premium-tax-credit.
