New changes

More children and young adults can now join

New eligibility groups (1 of 2)

Children of Care4Kids members

- They don't need to be in out-of-home care
- Joining Care4Kids does not mean they're involved in child welfare

New eligibility groups (2 of 2)

Youth up to age 26 who were in out-of-home care when they became an adult

They must live in the Care4Kids service area

Geographic expansion for enrolled members

Members can now live in more places and stay in the program

- Before, members who moved out of the Care4Kids service area were disenrolled
- Now, members can move to any county in the Chorus Community Health Plan service area and stay in the program. The county with child welfare jurisdiction must be the Division of Milwaukee Child Protective Services, Kenosha, Ozaukee, Racine, Washington, or Waukesha County

Care coordination

Youth in institutional or residential care can get care coordination up to 90 days before joining

- Kids in these settings aren't eligible for Care4Kids
- Moving to a placement in the community means they can join
- Working with them early to get their health care organized means getting health care quicker and easier
