Every county in Wisconsin has an agency that will investigate reported incidents of abuse, neglect, self-neglect, and financial exploitation. If you need to talk to someone about suspected abuse of an elder adult at risk (age 60+), call the Elder Abuse Hotline at 833-586-0107 or your local elder-adult-at-risk (EAAR) agency. To report suspected abuse of an adult at risk (ages 18–59), contact your county adult-at-risk (AAR) agency. Some Wisconsin tribes also have an elder abuse agency, an agency that investigates suspected abuse of younger adults with disabilities, or both.

Contact information for county and tribal agencies is listed below. You can also find contact information for these agencies on the Department of Health Services Adult Protective Services website.

Tribal Contacts

Listed alphabetically by tribal nation.

The investigating agencies and/or contacts for most of Wisconsin's tribal nations are listed below. These tribes have designated a contact for the purpose of receiving information or inquiries about APS-related matters from tribal members, county APS units, or other interested external parties.

For various reasons, tribal nations work in cooperation with county APS units to investigate cases of suspected abuse, neglect, self-neglect, or financial exploitation and/or to petition for guardianships or protective services. The county APS units that work collaboratively with tribal nations or provide assistance are listed with the respective tribes.
