

Become a Provider for the Children's Long-Term Support Program

Do you have skills that could make a positive impact in the lives of Wisconsin's children with disabilities? Consider becoming a registered provider in the Children's Long-Term Support (CLTS) Program so you can deliver your services to families in your area.

What is a CLTS provider?

CLTS providers help children experience their communities and interact with peers by delivering services that enrich their lives. You will work with local counties and the Wisconsin Department of Health Services to deliver needed services and supports to children with disabilities.

Providers can be anyone with the required qualifications and skills that can positively impact children with disabilities, such as:

- Respite care workers who can help give caregivers short-term breaks
- Contractors who can build ramps, fences, and other home modifications to increase accessibility
- Product providers who can help families get specialized medical and therapeutic supplies
- Counselors and therapists who can deliver services like music therapy, equine therapy, art therapy, and hippotherapy
- Child care workers who can deliver care in their own home or the child's home
- And more!

How do I become a CLTS provider?

Becoming a CLTS provider is easy and free! Visit www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/clts/provider-new.htm for instructions.

What's in it for me?

As a CLTS provider, you will get paid to make a difference for children and families. More benefits include:

- Expanding your customer base
- Being listed in the online statewide provider directory
- Joining a rapidly growing market
