Get support for kids with special health care needs

Ask questions. Get answers.

Families often have many questions when their child is diagnosed with delays, disabilities, special health care needs, or mental health conditions. Professionals may also have many questions as they find ways to help families get information and support for their child.

Wisconsin Wayfinder: Children's Resource Network makes it easier to find programs and services across Wisconsin that support children and families.

Call us. We listen.

Children's resource guides provide families and professionals with one-to-one personalized information on their specific needs. Guides take time to:

- Ask additional questions to understand the context of a family's situation
- Empower families, caregivers, and professionals
- Provide detailed knowledge
- Suggest how parents can advocate for themselves and the child they're supporting
- Talk through roadblocks
- Unpack complex situations

Children's resource guides can make referrals to:

- Health care or community providers and therapists
- Local events, trainings, and conferences
- Parent-to-parent supports

Contact a children's resource guide to learn more about:

- Birth to 3 Program
- Children's Long-Term Support Program
- Comprehensive Community Services
- Coordinated Services Teams
- Katie Beckett Medicaid, and more
